

Native American Studies and the Arts

Spring SEMESTER 2017
AMST 3550/ENGL 4520

This course is an interdisciplinary discovery of creativity in Native American cultural expression. Students will learn about the practice of craft, fine art, photography, literature, and film (and the blurred lines between those forms) as well as the historical and political contexts of Native American arts and humanities. Diverse readings and guest speakers will complement trips to museums in Tulsa and the Allied Arts series in Stillwater. Students will also participate in events of the Tulsa Artist Fellowship and the Oklahoma Indigenous Studies Alliance.

THURSDAYS 7:20-10:00 p.m.
Hybrid online and F2F
OSU-TULSA
Dr. Lindsey Claire Smith